Did You Know? Two Hills took its name from a nearby post office named after a well-known landmark: two prominent hills on the western outskirts of the community. It soon became the most important trading center on the Canadian Pacific Railway line between Edmonton and Lloydminster. While visiting the area, stop in to see Two Hills Heritage Park where there stand two lifelike statues donated by the Dowhaniuk family, former residents of Two Hills. Hand carved by John Weaver, the statues serve as a tribute to the grandparents and parents of the Dowhaniuk family, but also to all pioneers of the Two Hills area, Alberta, and Canada.
